BIBLIOGRAPHIES PUBLISHED IN NORTH AMERICA:

Five of these, published in 1981, 1978, 1977, 1976, and 1975, are appended. An early additional one, annotated and about as long as all these five put together, but almost entirely superseded by them, is: Patricia A. Kendall, WOMEN AND THE PRIESTHOOD: A SELECTED AND ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY, Philadelphia, Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania, 1976.

The question of women's ordination has been, at least in North America, the subject of much serious theological study, discussion, and publication by Roman Catholics as well as Anglicans. J. Robert Wright.

ADDITIONAL BIBLIOGRAPHIES FROM NORTH AMERICA:

Attached are two brief ones done by Sandra Boyd from the joint library of the Weston (S.J.) School of Theology and the Episcopal Divinity School, as well as sample cover pages from the official publications of the women's ordination movements in the Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches in the U.S.A. (RUACH and NEW WOMEN NEW CHURCH), which often carry bibliographical notes on this subject. In addition, and too late to my attention for xeroxing with this distribution, is the 26-page annotated bibliography appearing in ANGLICAN THEOLOGICAL REVIEW, Supplementary Series no. 6, June 1976, compiled by Dr. Ruth Tiffany Barnhouse, Fr. Michael Fahey S.J., Bridget Oram, and Fr. Bailey Walker, O.P.

This comes to a total of some 913 separate bibliographical entries. Of course some of these are duplicates, but others contain many separate items within each entry.
